Dear Sir Arthur

It is with pleasrue that I acknowledge your very kind letter of May 4th. Although it will be somewhat difficult for me to leave here in June, I have decided that I will attend the International Red Cross Conference, and look forward very much to seeing you and collaborating with you there.

As I understand, the boat on which I am to return sails on July 1st, in which case I shall be glad to comply with the request to present the certificates to the International Students who are completing their course at the Florence Nightingale International Foundation on June 30th, provided someone else has not already been asked, and also if I am not expected to make any set speech.

Miss Monkhouse, of the Bedford College for Women, has asked me to speak to the International Students on June 30th and also to present the certificates, but at the time, my plans were too uncertain to accept, and I cabled her my regrets. If, therefore, someone else has been asked to do this, please do not change the arrangements.

Very sincerely yours,

(sd) Norman H. Davis.
