28th February 1935.

Dear Miss Baggallay,

When I wrote to you about the contributions for your salary and pension I omitted to mention the contributions due on behalf of Miss Parsons, for which purpose we have hitherto always received £200 from the League of Red Cross Societies. We should be glad to receive this money, either in two instalments of £100 each or in one instalment of £200 during the last term, whichever is most convenient to the Foundation.

Yours sincerely,

Secretary.
