Dear Ms Ferguson

Bedford College Nursing Students

I am writing in reply to your letter of 22 May 1985 in which you enquire about possible borrowing rights for a small group of Bedford College students.

Nursing staff and students of The Middlesex Hospital do not use the Boldero (Medical School) Library but have their own library, staffed by a professionally qualified librarian, within the Macdonald-Buchanan School of Nursing. I think it would be more appropriate if you were to request use of this library for your students : the bookstock is more likely to be suited to their needs. There is also a library within the University College Hospital Combined Training School which caters for all grades of nursing staff.

I have set out below the addresses and telephone numbers of these two libraries plus the names of their librarians : I feel sure your students' needs will be adequately met.

Yours sincerely

Mrs Janet Cropper
