11th May 1936.

Dear Miss Dorsey,

I enclose last year's card altered for June 26th. After considerable thought it seems better not to make extensive alterations this year, as it may be necessary to have a new card altogether next year. H.R.H. The Duchess of Kent will not take up so much room as Miss Goodrich with all her description. I would, however, suggest that the card should be made a little larger all round (say 5" x 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ " instead of 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ " x 6" as at present), unless this will mean great expense with your envelopes. The programme, I think you decided, should be left unchanged, with the exception of being made a little larger like the card, but the decision about this is of course in your hands. I enclose the names and order of the speakers. I have left it to you to insert the correct description for Miss Bridges.

Yours sincerely,

Secretary.
