Dear Miss Monkhouse,

I have received your letter of September 2nd forwarded from London enclosing the minutes. There are one or two points in the curriculum which do not agree with my notes. It is possible that my notes may not be correct and if doubtful they might be brought up again at the next meeting.

Page 4 - line 18 (I. Personal Hygiene)

I was under the impression the Committee decided that the whole course in Hygiene and Public Health be taken.

As this is included in Miss Edgell's general Psychology Course and will appear in that outline, it is rather difficult for it to be taken as a separate subject.

I am enclosing a draft copy of the new syllabus with the corrections. Some of the outlines still need to be revised, we would like to have these by the beginning of October, so that we can get it into print as soon as possible as it has to be circulated all over the world.

I hope you had a good vacation and have had better weather than we have had in Paris. I am expecting to be in London on October 3rd.

With my very kind regards,

Yours sincerely
