Dear Miss Monkhouse,

I have spoken to Professor Jameson this morning about saying a few words at the prize giving of the International students on June 26th and he will be delighted to do so.

When I wrote to Dr. Boudreau I did not suggest any title for his speech as I felt that we had only reached a preliminary stage in finding out if he was able to come. I rather think that Professor Jameson will take as the subject for his remarks the rôle of the public health nurse and I expect he will go on to show what a useful link she is in the chain of the whole of our public health organisation.

Should you prefer him to speak on rather different lines I know if you write and ask him he will be only too glad to fall in with your wishes.

Yours sincerely,

G. S. Parkinson
